

TWO HURT WHEN CAR RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH

Trolley Crashed Into Freight on Siding at Maspeth, L. I.

Two men were caught and badly crushed in a collision between a trolley car and a "dead" freight car at the Van Dorn avenue station of the Maspeth, L. I., electric road to-day. The accident was caused by the criminal or negligent throwing of a switch.

Car No. 291, in charge of Motorman Eugene Hahn and Conductor Richard Blake, had started for Maspeth with forty passengers. Just before the cars reach the station at Van Dorn avenue, they pass a switch which opens upon a siding. Here are stored empty freight cars and wreckers.

The long stretch permits of speed, and the car was bowling along at 30 miles an hour. The switch should have been closed. Suddenly as the car reached it there was a sickening lurch and the car dashed into the siding. Hahn threw on the air and stuck to his post to the last second. Policeman Fridanski, of the Newtown Precinct, clutched at the old-fashioned emergency brake.

All this took less than five seconds. Then a splintering crash that drowned the shrieks of the women panned behind and the car settled down badly wrecked. Blake, the conductor, fought the passengers back and saved dozens from being trampled upon. Emergency calls were sent in to St. Catherine's Hospital.

The surgeons found the motorman and policeman helpless and senseless under the heavy car. Dragged out, they were found to be still alive. The right leg of each was twisted and broken. Scalp wounds and many contusions added to their hurts. They were hurried to the hospital.

Passengers who were cut by the flying glass and bruised were also treated, but refused to be taken to the hospital. They returned to their homes on a special car. Every effort is being made to place the responsibility for the open switch.

WOMAN CHASED BURGLAR ALONG FIFTH AVENUE

Miss Prescott Had Detected Negro Kifling Contents of Bureau.

When Miss Catherine Prescott, of No. 55 Fifth avenue, entered a room on the top floor of the house, which is a four-story brownstone structure, to-day, she found a huge negro engaged in rifling the contents of a bureau filled with valuable clothing.

Most women would have screamed or fainted, but not so with Miss Prescott, who is fifty-five years old. She made a grab for the intruder, who started for the door as soon as he saw her, but he hurried her aside and dashed down the stairs.

Close to his heels was Miss Prescott shouting "stop thief" with all her might. A servant tried to stop the burglar as he dashed through the front door, but he struck her a blow in the face that stunned her.

Up Fifth avenue he fled. Miss Prescott, hatless, close behind. A large crowd soon joined in the chase and the excitement was tremendous. At Fourteenth street Policeman Peterson, of the Mercer street station, tripped up the fleeing negro. The crowd shouted to lynch him, but the policeman, accompanied by Miss Prescott, got him to Jefferson Market Court without having much trouble.

The man, who said his name was Samuel Cole, and that he lived on Twenty-ninth street, was held by Magistrate Finn in $200 bail on a charge of burglary. In court he was recognized as a man whose picture is in the gone five years on a similar charge.

Miss Prescott, who resides with her brother, a prominent insurance man, at the Fifth avenue address, is at a loss to explain how the man could have entered the house in broad daylight. The police believe that Cole may be the author of the recent wholesale burglaries in lower Fifth avenue, which has become known as the "burglar belt."
